About IUJ

The International University of Japan (IUJ) was created in 1982, as Japan graduate-school-only university, by bold leaders with a unique vision representing business, government and world organizations.

IUJ equips students with interdisciplinary skills in politics, economics and management, as well as historical and cultural perspectives to take on current global issues in their chosen profession. Offering an English-only curriculum to students from 50+ countries taught by a highly qualified faculty, IUJ boasts master's and doctoral degree in two graduate schools:

GSIR – Graduate School of International Relations

GSIM – Graduate School of International Management

With active interdisciplinary research initiatives and an interactive alumni network of more than 4,500 graduates from over 135 countries / regions, IUJ is making effective use of our global outreach to link up world organizations, businesses and governments both in and outside of Japan.

In September, 2014, the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology (MEXT) selected IUJ for its Top Global University Project. In February, 2018, the Graduate School of International Management (GSIM), IUJ obtained accreditation from AACSB international, the world's leading authority on quality assurance of business school.

Aims of the school

1. The International University of Japan is a private post graduate institution founded with the extensive support of Japan's industrial, financial and educational circles and of administrative in the area where it was established. Its administrative policy, based on a spirit of progressive internationalism, is open and autonomous.
2. The graduate school of the International University of Japan is a new professional school whose primary purpose is to educate capable young men and women and develop in them a high level of interdisciplinary and specialized knowledge which they can put to practical use in the international arena.

President of IUJ

“Learn about the world, Learn about Japan”

International University of Japan (IUJ) is an extremely unique university, and this uniqueness is our biggest asset.

Located in the charming Japanese countryside, IUJ's language of instruction is English and our programs provide a globally-recognized graduate education in the fields of International Relations and International Management. In addition to this, our student body and their daily lives are also unique.

More than 80% of our students hail from outside Japan, with a majority of them coming from various nations across Asia and Africa. Our university's on-campus dormitories are surrounded by the beautiful nature of Niigata and students spend time together for their studies and daily life activities. These everyday interactions give our students the opportunity to learn from each other and share their respective cultures and customs, creating an environment where cross-cultural interaction is the norm. It gives students the chance to learn about the world in both academic and personal settings.

We also provide an educational environment in which our students can learn about Japan. Last year, we started the Japan-Global Development Program, by expanding our courses on Japanese politics, economics, business, and management practices. The new program is comprised of sixteen courses and allows students to understand the methods behind Japanese development and implement them in their home countries. Best of all, the course is open to students in any of our graduate programs. A university where students can learn extensively about Japan in English is quite special.

Why don't you join this unique institution and study to become a global leader?

CASE 01 From Japan to the World

“A university with an international atmosphere and global connections”

June 2019 marked the tenth anniversary of my graduation from IUJ's International Development Program, and on reflection, my time there set the course for my professional career.

My primary motivation for choosing IUJ was a desire to study development economics in English and to change my future career in that field. Although the International Development Program was challenging, I greatly enjoyed my time at IUJ thanks to my wonderful friends and the faculty members.

The past decade has been filled with career experiences in Southeast Asia, which has a significant connection to my years at IUJ. After graduating, I started working as a junior program officer at a research institute in Tokyo. In 2010, I moved to Hanoi to work as an economic researcher at the Japanese Embassy in Vietnam. From there, I've worked as a country officer at JICA Headquarters focusing on projects with Myanmar and Cambodia, and in Thailand researching development issues in the Mekong region.

The Southeast Asia region is where many IUJ alumni are extremely active, and our bonds are exceptionally strong. For example, when I was working in Vietnam, there was a senpai (senior alumnus) in charge of international affairs at a Vietnamese government research institute. Even though our first meeting was in Hanoi, we developed a good relationship through our shared IUJ connection and even collaborated in some of our works.

I've now returned to Japan to work for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and the international experience I gained at IUJ continues to support my current role working on bilateral issues between Japan and various European nations. The IUJ IDP prepared me well to understand the economics of country development and enhance my communication skills in an international setting. This is an extremely valuable opportunity that can't be replicated elsewhere.

CASE 02 From the world to Japan

“ A life-changing experience at IUJ ”

After graduating from IUJ with my MBA degree, I stayed in Japan and currently work for Enterprise Business System Solutions (EBSS) in Tokyo.

Before coming to Japan, I worked for a multinational bank in Jakarta, Indonesia. After working there for several years, I felt the need to improve my knowledge and skills in business administration. I also wanted to enhance my career and explore new places. I had a long-time dream to live and work in Japan so I focused my search on MBA programs available here, which is when IUJ came to my attention. I was impressed by the extensive courses offered, the diversity of the students, and how alumni strengthen their careers after completing their studies. I decided to apply to the MBA program, and as expected, it was the right decision!

During my two years at IUJ, I grew significantly as a person and as a professional, gaining valuable knowledge and skills in business administration alongside various other achievements. Studying at IUJ also helped me score my current role in the consulting industry. My employer visited campus as part of a recruitment program, and my dreams came true when I received a job offer before I'd even graduated.

The consulting industry is brand new to me, but with the knowledge and skills I obtained from IUJ, I've found the transition easy. In my role, I am handling a global project with stakeholders from different countries. Again, thanks to IUJ, I can adapt quickly to diverse international environments and manage projects like these effectively.

Completing my MBA at IUJ opened many doors for me. I'd recommend the university to anyone who wants to enhance their career - it's been an amazing, life-changing experience.

International Relations Program

IRP educates young people to be outstanding practitioners and scholars who cope with challenges to international peace and security and diverse global issues

In the International Relations Program (IRP), students begin with the study of basic concepts and theories of international relations, diplomacy, security, and peace. Then they can focus on specialized thematic and regional issues to analyze and understand dynamic and complex contemporary international affairs. In particular, they study the most current global challenges like nuclear crises, civil wars, terrorism, human security, poverty, refugees, environmental problems, and sustainable development. Students can also focus on regional studies of the Asia Pacific region, Japan, China, South Asia, the Middle East, and Eurasia.

With a significant amount of critical reading and analytical skills training, students are expected to sharply analyze diverse global challenges and to propose effective policy for solutions to them.

Curriculum

The IRP begins with training in the foundation of international relations. Students must choose at least five basic elective core courses (out of nine) to consolidate this basic understanding. Those courses seek to provide students with the conceptual foundations, empirical knowledge, and analytical skills that are required to understand diverse aspects of international relations.

The IRP also offers twenty-nine elective courses with thematic and regional foci. Those courses seek to provide more advanced, specified, and up-to-date studies corresponding with the multi-disciplinary nature of the international relations field. The thematic courses deal with the current issues of national security, diplomatic policy, human security, refugees, the environment, conflict resolution and peace building, the United Nations, and global civil society. Regional courses include studies of Japan, China, the United States, Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and Eurasia. Such diverse course offerings allow considerable flexibility for students to customize their academic pursuits in the course of their two-year master's study.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the IRP are 1) two years of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 40 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination.

Students are awarded a Master of Arts in International Relations at the time of completion.

"You can challenge any kind of dream at IRP surrounded by your IUJ family from all around the world"

Two things can be said for IRP, actually for IUJ overall. First, you can challenge any kind of dream at IUJ. Regardless of your purpose for studying there, you can get plenty of academic and social support from great professors, unique classmates and the school. What you do in this environment is all up to you. Please remember that there are always classmates from all around the world by your side, so you will never be alone.

The second point connects to this sense of fellowship. Whoever you are, the moment you graduate, you will have brothers and sisters, your IUJ family all around the planet. You can obtain not only a professional education but also connections spreading all over the world from a one or two year journey in the beautiful countryside of Japan.

International Development Program

Students develop skills and knowledge for economic/public policy making as young professionals

In the International Development Program (IDP), students choose one of two Master's degree tracks:

International Development (ID-IDP) or Economics (ECO-IDP).

The International Development (ID-IDP) track offers various development-related courses in economics, regional science, and related fields. Throughout the coursework, students learn how to evaluate current policies and design more effective policies to encourage economic growth and social development for developing countries. The Economics (ECO-IDP) track puts emphasis on modern economic theories and their applications. Students learn applied macroeconomics comprising fiscal policy and international finance as well as empirical microeconomics including labor, health, and environmental issues to understand and analyze current issues. Both degree tracks aim to equip students with advanced knowledge and skills so that they will tackle and overcome the problems they are facing as new leaders in both public and private sectors.

The ECO-IDP also offers the Macroeconomic-Policy Program (MPP), a special master's program established in cooperation with the IMF (International Monetary Fund): The MPP is designed to provide professionals from central banks, finance ministries, international organizations, and private financial institutions with academic training in the fields of macroeconomics.

Curriculum

To complete these degrees, students take both required and elective coursework and write and defend a thesis or research report. Both degree tracks start with a series of core courses in micro/macroeconomics and statistics/econometrics in the Fall and Winter terms. With the basic understanding they obtain through the core courses, students then take more advanced and applied elective courses depending on their interests and preferred study areas. Students can choose from a wide range of electives, where they can also obtain computer software skills for advanced data analysis. They are also encouraged to take courses from not only the IDP, but also the IRP, PMPP, JGDP and MBA programs.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the IDP are 1) two years of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 40 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination.

Students are awarded a Master of Arts in International Development or a Master of Arts in Economics at the time of completion.

"An education that covers crucial issues in today's society"

IDP is an ideal program for anyone seeking to understand crucial socio-economic issues in today's world. One of the best things about the program is the variety of perspectives students are exposed to, which fosters a broad mindset. You get the privilege to learn from the highly qualified international faculty and from classmates who have worked in government departments and private organizations across the globe. The course content covers topics from both macroeconomics and microeconomics while touching on issues regarding education, the environment, and finance.

The program equipped us with a solid understanding of theory and the ability to think critically, allowing for independent development of our academic and professional careers. If you want to develop your analytical skills, understand how to implement policies effectively, improve socio-economic issues in your country or ensure you're a competitive candidate when applying for important job roles, IDP is a fantastic choice.

Public Management and Policy Analysis Program

PMPP is for future leaders of public and non-profit organizations in the era of globalization, diversity, and digitalization

The Public Management and Policy Analysis Program (PMPP) aims to offer global graduate education for future leaders in public and non-profit organizations. The PMPP is designed to address 21st century challenges faced by the public sector, including rapidly changing technologies, climate change, and fiscal retrenchment. It emphasizes evidence-based approaches toward public organization management, policy making, and policy implementation. The majority of students is public officials from more than 18 countries. Not only inside the classroom but also outside it, students will have rich opportunities to learn various forms of public management and policy under different political, economic, and cultural circumstances.

Curriculum

The PMPP's two-year curriculum consists of a combination of core required, core elective, and elective courses. Students are also required to complete a thesis or research report under the supervision of a GSIR faculty member.

Core required courses provide students with the fundamental knowledge and skills for being leaders in the public sector, including public administration, public organization management, public finance, policy processes, and statistics.

Core elective courses focus more on the specific aspects of public management and policy: local services, policy analysis, human resource management, environmental issues, public health, regional development, and e-governance.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the PMPP are 1) two years of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 40 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination.

Students are awarded a Master of Arts in Public Management at the time of completion.

"Transforming students into skilled professional"

Enrolling in PMPP has been an incredibly enriching experience for me. It's hard to state in just a few words what an exciting adventure the past two years have been! Between the passionate faculty members and an exceptionally diverse student body, the program equipped me with strong analytical skills and a firm foundation for problem-solving. I have learned that decision making based on academic knowledge and critical thinking is essential in public policy development.

PMPP was instrumental in grooming myself and my peers into skilled professionals who will greatly contribute to our home countries. The diversity of students enabled me to look at different perspectives on issues and appreciate global viewpoints, which I found to be rewarding and intellectually stimulating. I encourage you to consider this program and take advantage of a great curriculum and learning environment.

PhD Program

In response to strong needs for higher level professionals in an increasingly globalized society, GSIR launched a PhD Program in September 2015.

Targeting future leaders in international organizations, public organizations and/or governments, the PhD Program aims at fostering high level professionals playing an important role in international arena with theoretical, analytical, and practical abilities as well as fostering researchers to operate effectively in international society.

The PhD program, according to specialized research areas, consists of 3 clusters that are extensions of our 3 existing Master's programs in GSIR, i.e., "International Development Program," "Public Management and Policy Analysis Program" and "International Relations Program."

- Economics Cluster (Degree: PhD in Economics)
- Public Management Cluster (Degree: PhD in Public Management)
- International Relations Cluster (Degree: PhD in International Relations)

The PhD Program is dedicated to developing highlevel research abilities for a wide range of contemporary international issues through rigorous academic training. It also helps students acquire a long-term vision of a rapidly changing world with diverse perspectives in global contexts. All courses are conducted in English.

• Economics Cluster

fosters researchers with the specialized knowledge and high-level research ability in Economics including quantitative and statistical methods, and fosters those professionals with the above-mentioned knowledge and abilities which can be applied to relevant jobs (such as economic development or economic policy formulation) in such places as international organizations and government bodies.

• Public Management Cluster

fosters researchers with the specialized knowledge and high-level research ability in Public Management, and fosters those professionals with the above-mentioned knowledge and abilities which can be applied to relevant jobs (such as effective management) in such places as international organizations and government bodies

• International Relations Cluster

fosters researchers with the specialized knowledge and high-level research ability in the increasingly complex field of International Relations, including security, and fosters those professionals with the above-mentioned knowledge and abilities which can be applied to relevant jobs (such as security policy formulation) and be implemented in such places as international organizations and government bodies.

Degree Requirements

PhD candidates must satisfy the following requirements while enrolled in the program for a minimum of 3 years and receiving necessary research guidance.

- 1) To obtain 6 credits (3 courses) from the "Core Required Courses" (listed below) and 2 credits (1 course) from different cluster.

Core Required Courses

• Economics Cluster

Advanced Microeconomics, Advanced Macroeconomics, Advanced Econometrics I

In addition, students are strongly urged to take Advanced Econometrics II.

• Public Management Cluster

Advanced Public Management, Advanced Public Policy Process, Advanced Public Policy Modeling

• International Relations Cluster

Advanced Studies in International Politics, Advanced Studies in International Political Economy, Advanced Studies in Human Rights and Global Justice

- 2) To obtain 9 credits from "PhD Dissertation Advanced Seminar I, II and III" (which carry 3 credits each).
- 3) To pass the PhD candidate examination conducted at the end of 1st year. Candidates will be given a second chance during the 2nd year to take this examination if they fail the examination in the 1st year.
- 4) To pass the evaluation and the final examination of their PhD dissertation. The PhD dissertation is, in principle, comprised of three academic papers, one of which must be accepted by a refereed academic journal.

Curriculum and Courses

The PhD curriculum consists of Core Required Courses, an Elective Course and PhD Dissertation Advanced Seminars. The Courseworks are designed to give students high level specialized and scholastic knowledge and research capability required for PhD candidates. The PhD Dissertation Advanced Seminars are designed to give students guidance for writing a PhD dissertation.

Core Required Courses

• Economics Cluster

Advanced Microeconomics (Winter, 1st year)

Advanced Macroeconomics (Fall, 1st year)

MBA Program

Leverage emerging markets!

IUJ's MBA Program was established in 1988 as the first US-style business school in Japan, offering a US MBA curriculum all in English. It has been recognized many times as one of the top 100 global MBA programs in the Economist's "Best Business Schools" ranking. It acquired certification in 2018 from AACSB (The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business) International. The IUJ program focuses on 'Leveraging Emerging Markets (such as Asia and Africa) for Global Advantage' and delivers the knowledge, skills, and strategies required to take best advantage of the world's fast-growing economies for global competitive advantage. It also integrates socially responsible business leadership in the curriculum and supports sustainable growth and development.

Curriculum

The first year of the MBA Program is devoted to foundation building with rigorous core courses. Students learn the essentials of management with an emphasis on global leadership and emerging markets. The curriculum takes a balance between hard and soft skills and makes certain that students keep up with business and technological trends. Case studies are used in most classes, and cases on issues in Asia, Africa, and Latin America are regularly included. Students are asked to participate in group works, through which they learn cross-border communication and global team leadership. From Spring term in the first year, students begin to customize their courses for the career they seek after graduation. They may take one or multiple 'specialization' paths in Finance, Marketing, Management, and IT/OM/SCM/PM/SE.*

* IT/Operations Mgt./Supply Chain Mgt./Project Mgt./Social Enterprise

Students seeking to learn Japanese as an extra skill set may take Japanese language courses offered in the Japanese Language Program.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the MBA are 1) two years of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 40 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination.

Students are awarded an MBA at the time of completion.

Message from MBA Student

El Mehdi Er Raqabi (Morocco)

"MBA curriculum added managerial viewpoints to my technical background"

The MBA curriculum was the most exciting program I've encountered, and I had the opportunity to make it highly diverse with the number of courses IUJ offers. One thing I enjoyed during my classes was seeing life from different perspectives. My technical background focuses on mathematics and engineering, but I was able to learn from managerial and behavioral viewpoints.

Alongside my thesis, my time at IUJ saw me participate in academic conferences, a library internship, teaching assistant roles in three courses, and facilitator roles in training programs for large Japanese corporations. IUJ creates a learning environment where you interact with individuals from all over the world, and as a result, my mindset shifted to a more global one. Studying here has made me a better human and scientist. I developed a passion for research and continuous improvement that will undoubtedly boost my career as a global leader and researcher.

Intensive MBA Program

Training global talents with managerial competencies

Today's corporations face tremendous challenges with global competition and the rising power of emerging economies. Changes are needed in order to proactively adapt to this shifting paradigm, and create and sustain competitive advantages.

Such initiatives are cross-functionally integrative in nature as disconnected functional moves rarely lead to competitive advantage. Thus, today's global competition requires a critical pool of global managers who can work across the boundaries of business functions and mobilize their business as an integrated whole. The IMBA program aims to prepare talents with global managerial competences.

The E-Business Management Program that IUJ has been offering will be merged into the IMBA in 2019 as an E-business (Ebiz) concentration to develop global talents who can lead in a digital economy, with insights into both general management and IT competence.

Curriculum

The IMBA program is designed for the most capable and best motivated individuals who are willing to update to the frontier of managerial knowledge in an intensive 12-month period to turbo-charge their careers to the next level. The curriculum is compact, rigorous, and demanding. During this intensive period IMBA students spend on the IUJ campus, they tackle the essentials of management with an emphasis on global leadership and emerging markets. The case method is a principal pedagogical means in most classes, in addition to others like simulation and real-life global virtual team project. These employed cases focus on issues in not only advanced countries but also emerging countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Teamwork is emphasized and the composition of each team includes people from diverse backgrounds (e.g. cultures, nationalities, and professions) to encourage cross-cultural communication and enhance global team leadership skills.

Summer Capstone Courses

Capstone courses are the final wrap-up for the IMBA program. Taken in the summer term prior to graduation, they integrate elements from multiple courses already completed to address timely managerial issues and challenges of competitive importance. Capstone courses consist of three one-credit required courses; "International Career Development," "Leadership Bootcamp," and "Strategy Simulation," which all reflect emerging issues of global competition.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the IMBA are 1) one year of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 32 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination. Students are awarded an MBA at the time of completion.

"An accelerated curriculum to learn both inside and outside of the classroom"

Indonesia, Myanmar, Sudan, Uzbekistan, and more...during my time at IUJ, I became familiar with these countries as the homelands of my classmates. More than just the content of IUJ's lectures and coursework, the close bond that develops between students here is one of the university's great treasures.

Because of the diversity of our student body, you have the opportunity to learn both inside and outside of the classroom. I think that this kind of environment is what makes completing studies at IUJ so valuable.

Compared to the two-year MBA program, the one-year program has a more accelerated curriculum, which has many advantages. I particularly feel that the program is worth considering for prospective students who would like to return to the workforce as quickly as possible.

Japan-Global Development Program

Learning Universal Logic in Development grounded in Japanese experience

The Japan-Global Development Program (JGDP) is a newly established two-year master's program offered jointly by the GSIR and GSIM to provide students the opportunity to learn universal development and growth logic in the fields of politics, economy and management, using Japan's experiences in economic development and corporate growth as basic case materials. The JGDP is built on the following ideas:

1. International students learn about the logic and lessons in development from Japanese experiences (both successes and failures) and acquire knowledge and skills to consider development strategies for their homelands.
2. Japanese students develop the ability to explain the logic of Japanese development in English by learning Japan's experiences and thus can communicate about them with the world.
3. Students who will work in the international arena in the future learn the universal logic of economic development and corporate growth using Japanese experiences as case materials.

The JGDP is not intended as a program to train Japan specialists. The logic and lessons from Japan's experience will help future leaders from abroad when they have to think about their strategy for development back home. Thus, the logic behind Japan's experience can be applied to various global scenarios. That is why we call this program the Japan-Global Development Program. The JGDP enables Japanese students to explain their country's development logically when they go abroad and helps them to play an active role as global leaders.

Depending on the students' wishes, they can select an area of specialization from those presented in the following table and choose which school they want to belong to. Those who choose "Foreign Policy," "Economic Policy," "Development Policy," or "Public Management" belong to GSIR and those who choose "Management" belong to GSIM.

Degrees are awarded for the respective concentrations as follows:

Concentration (GSIR)	Degree Name
Foreign Policy	MA in International Relations
Economic Policy	MA in Economics
Development Policy	MA in International Development
Public Management	MA in Public Management
Concentration (GSIM)	Degree Name
Management	Master of Business Administration

Curriculum

JGDP courses offered by GSIR cover various fields, from the international political and economic environment after Japan's Meiji Restoration to Japan's education system. Courses also deal with the characteristics of postwar Japanese economic growth, Japan's foreign policy, Japanese politics, national security policy, foreign assistance policy, public finance and administration.

JGDP courses offered by GSIM provide education on Japan's industrial development, Japanese-style management, corporate finance and Japan's financial system, employment practices, manufacturing management, business leaders and development of SMEs. All the JGDP courses emphasize both theoretical background and international comparison.

Degree Requirements

The requirements for completing the JGDP are 1) two years of enrollment, 2) acquisition of at least 40 credits, 3) submission of a master's thesis or research report after receiving the necessary research guidance, and 4) passing the thesis/research report evaluation and final examination.

JICA Development Studies Program (JICA-DSP)

The JGDP was jointly developed by the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) and the International University of Japan.

(Besides the JGDP courses listed above, JGDP students are required to take courses offered by the master's programs of their concentration. Each concentration or degree's course requirements are detailed at the following URL: <https://www.iuj.ac.jp/jgdp/>)

Japan Focus

When students belonging to other master's programs obtain 8 or more credits of JGDP courses, they can receive a special certificate of Japan Focus.

Center for Language Education and Research

English Language Program (ELP)

English is the official language at IUJ. Those needing extra support are encouraged to take our 8-week Intensive English Program (IEP) in the summer before they become full-time students. In addition, throughout the academic year English and academic writing courses are offered to equip students with the language and skills they will need for their academic and professional careers.

Academic English

IUJ students can take a variety of English-language courses as a part of their graduate studies in IUJ's degree programs. The Academic English courses provide first-year students with the necessary foundation in academic writing to succeed in their graduate studies. Second-year students can take English for Thesis Writing courses to prepare for writing their MA thesis.

Finally, both first- and second-year students can take the Academic English Literacy course to improve their debate and written argumentation skills.

Business English

The English for Professional Communication courses are offered to IUJ students interested in developing their written (email, memo, report writing) and spoken (interviewing, meeting management, negotiation) business English skills.

Summer Intensive English Program (IEP)

IUJ's Intensive English Program (IEP) provides intermediate- to advanced-level English training for students who intend to enter IUJ's graduate programs and for professionals who wish to immerse themselves in English in preparation for work assignments that involve substantial international English communication. We offer intensive instruction in developing effective academic study strategies in an English-only environment and help to prepare students for their course work beginning in the fall. At the same time, students participate in extracurricular activities for social and cross-cultural communication purposes.

This is an eight-week program that runs from mid-July to early-September.

IEP Schedule

	Week 1	Week 2	Week 3	Week 4	Week 5	Week 6	Week 7	Week 8
Morning	Oral Communication Skills & Academic Listening Skills
Afternoon	IUJ Prospective students: Text Skills (basic academic reading and writing)
	IUJ Non-matriculating students: Text Skills (basic academic reading and writing)				Business communication skills
Extracurricular activities	Individual guidance / private lessons Cross-cultural communication / Cross-cultural awareness (Hiking, field trips, barbecues, other activities)

Japanese Language Program (JLP)

Basic and Elementary Japanese: helps students acquire basic communication skills in Japanese. Intermediate: focuses on Mastery of the application of basic Japanese skills. Advanced: covers the ability to explain and discuss social issues and topics related to learner's interests. A Japanese Presentation Exhibition is held annually where students can demonstrate their achievements in Japanese language acquisition.

The JLP also offers noncredit courses such as Business Japanese, where participants learn honorifics and manners needed for Japanese business situations.

Goals of each course

Course	JLPT Level	# of kanji learned	Oral Proficiency Interview
Elementary	N4~5	300	High-novice
Intermediate	N2~3	600~700	High-intermediate to Low advanced
Advanced	N1~2	1000~	Mid- to High advanced

Intensive Japanese Program

Intensive Japanese Programs for zero beginners are held for students sponsored by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and IUJ students. The programs are 4 to 6 days in length, and help learners acquire what's necessary for their daily lives in Japan such as greetings, self-introductions, phrases for shopping, and phonetic syllables, i.e., hiragana and katakana.

Executive Development programs

In addition to regular programs (master's and doctoral courses), IUJ also utilizes its international environment with English as the official language within the university to provide various training programs to companies and institutions that see globalization as an opportunity for growth strategy. We also offer customized training as requested.

-Summer Intensive English Program (IEP)

IUJ's Intensive English Program (IEP) provides intermediate- to advanced-level English training for students who intend to enter IUJ's graduate programs and for professional people who wish to immerse themselves in English in preparation for work assignments that involve substantial international English communication.

(for more information see page 21)

-Global Leadership Program (GLP)

Corporations recognize that globalization in emerging markets is a major opportunity to be capitalized on as part of their growth strategies. There is a strong need in these corporations for competent global managers who can lead international business deployment. IUJ's Global Leadership Program (GLP) aims to respond to this critical need to develop and train such global managers.

Links to the Public Sector

* Graduate School Organization Executive Committee (GSO-EC)

The GSO-EC is a multinational student representative organization which organizes many events to enrich students' lives in IUJ. They also support various groups such as the football, basketball, yoga, badminton, and Photography clubs, etc. Students, their families, faculty, staff and local people enjoy these events and club activities together.

* GSIR & GSIM Council

These student Councils are responsible for assisting students, faculty and the administration in enhancing academic life for all members of the GSIM and GSIR communities (students, faculty and the administration). The Councils promote and sponsor events that bring students, faculty and administration together for the purpose of developing mutually beneficial relationships as well as strive to improve networking relationships with businesses.

2 MLIC building

2 View from Library

4 Gymnasium

2 Private room at SD2

1 SAKURA Lane

- 1 Main Buildings Classrooms, study rooms (open 24 hours), faculty and admin. offices, meeting rooms, etc.
- 2 Matsushita Library and Information Center (MLIC) 1F: Office, PC Rooms 2F: Library 3F: Hall
The MLIC was built in 1988 with donations from Panasonic Corporation, formerly known as Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd.. The library holds about 100,000 books (80% foreign), 13,000 electronic books, 50,000 full-text of electronic journals and 17 online databases such as world-class financial or marketing data and macro data or statistics series of various countries. The Library is open from 8:30 a.m until 0:00 a.m and PC rooms are available for 24 hours during the semester. All of online resources can be accessible for 24 hours.
- 3 IUJ Research Institute 1F: Lounge 2F: Seminar room 3F: Faculty offices 4F: Accommodation for guests
The IUJ research institute has conducted research projects on global problems and issues facing Japan and the entire world in order to make proposals and recommendations to contribute to solving such programs.
- 1 Cafeteria (1F) & Snack Lounge (2F)
The cafeteria is open for lunch, café and diner. Daily menus including Halal food are served. Snack Lounge is open 24 hours and is used for students' study, group works and parties.
- 2 School Shop
The school shop offers drinks, snacks, bread, cleaning supplies, school supplies, dry cleaning service, postal services, business card printing services and parcel delivery services. It is open Monday through Friday 8AM – 7PM and Saturday and Sunday 1PM – 7PM.
- 3 Energy Center
The Energy Center is responsible for monitoring all equipment and facilities to ensure their safe and consistent operations. This entails monitoring machines and indicators in person 24 hours a day.
- 4 Gymnasium (1F) & Training Room(2F) 5 Four Tennis Courts 6 Barbeque Site
A full-sized gymnasium and work-out room are open from morning till midnight. There is a shower room in the building, too. Two tennis courts offer lightning system and are available till 10 PM. IUJ also offers a barbeque site for leisure. The large campus, situated in natural surroundings and beautiful mountain scenery is good for jogging and walking, too. During the winter season, IUJ's location in the heart of Japan's Snow Country makes for a cross-country and down-hill skiing paradise.
- 1 Student Dormitory1 (SD1) 2 Student Dormitory2 (SD2) 3 Student Dormitory3 (SD3) 4 Married Students Apartment (MSA)
IUJ boasts about 300 private rooms for all our single students, with private baths, a bed, bedding, LAN connection and WiFi. Each dormitory has a public kitchen, laundromat and lounge. There is an apartment building with 18 units, each with a private kitchen and bath, LAN connection and WiFi, for married students on campus, too. At least one English-speaking dormitory staff member is stationed in the dormitories 24 hours a day.
Through dormitory life with different nationalities and different backgrounds, you can learn from each others' world views and gain awareness of critical issues while learning to work together. A borderless and independent environment is created in the dorms as a result of allocating rooms without regard to students' nationalities and gender.
- 5 Faculty Residences
- 1 SAKURA (Cherry Tree) Lane
When the Sakura trees bloom in April, this Sakura Lane turns beautiful pink. Students like to sit under the trees and enjoy "Ohanami" (viewing cherry blossoms).
- 2 Alumni Forest
Each year, two new trees are added to the Alumni Forest, one for the International Relations graduating class, and one for the International Management graduating class.
- 3 Natural Park
Nature abounds on and around the IUJ campus. If you need a break from studying, there's plenty of fresh air to enjoy nearby.

Others: IUJ Bus services IUJ provides transportation support to aid in our busy graduate students' academic pursuits by making access to campus, Urasa station, hospital and daily shopping free and convenient. The bus runs between 8AM and 8PM once every hour on weekdays. On weekends, the bus takes you to Muikamachi for shopping too.
